

Forever My Unique Friend

How did you identify I wanted help to support me through the day How did you identify I desired kindness to take all my pain away.

The quality of being unique is found in a person like you.
A friend who is so caring, in everything you say and do.

How did you know I wanted a hand to show me the correct way how did you know I needed a smile to encourage me through the day you're a person who betters my reality, by being an element of it each day.

Someone who really touches my heart, in a special and unique way

How did you know I wanted courage to make a truthful place how did you know I required laughing to take away all the sadness you're a person who's always liberal, and willing to help in all you can?

You actually give me from your heart, and show me concern for who I am?

And this companion I have found in you you are as special as one could be.
Because you are my unique friend and that you will forever be.
