

What do I just like to think?

Occasionally I just like to think,
And confine my thoughts in ink.
When the enclosure begins to flow,
I leave my feelings and let them go.
It's when the brain starts to run free,
That is when we actually start to see.
Our eyes are in some way opened wide,
And we are specified a glance inside.
We see the place where dreams grow,
The one's with infatuation we must sow
Big thoughts can give us power,
They flourish and nurture just like a flower.
Complicated problems simply pop,
As enormous thoughts take you to the top.
So, don't keep them locked up in shadowy spaces,
Good thoughts will take you in unknown places.
