

What Is Life, Journey or Art?

Life is an effort of art;
impressive you paint or write with your heart, taking concern to make each part a masterpiece of colors or words that fly together like a flock of birds.

You use the apparatus that you have,
a paintbrush or a pen in your hand.
Appreciate the hand you use,
because you don't get to choose,
and be cautious what you create using your own character trait.

Grab an example from the other designs,
but still use your creative guidelines.
Don't think your ability come from your greatness;
they are a gift from God, and they're not perfectly painless;
they take patience and care,
and you have to be able to bear

The part can be one of a kind,
no matter if you have a great mind.
Write and paint of actions undefined,
by the knowledge of others who are undermined.

The sands of time
will bring about motivation
and the gifts of God you use without indecision.
Life is an effort of art;
it is a reflection of you,
and a journey that you must pursue.
